PRIZES AND SCHOLARSHIPS AWARDED.

The End of College Life-A Good Class, with Plenty of Honor Men.

It is probable that the most imposing ceremony of the Commencement season in New York was witnessed yesterday at the Academy of Music. The occasion marked the celebration of the one bundred and nineteenth Commencement of Colum. bia College, and, as they have done for more than a century past, the friends of the institution sat for several hours in hearing of the voices of young and ambitious undergraduates, who extelled the happiness of departed COLLEGE DAYS. As a means of moving the minds of mankind pratory has always been recognized as a potent agent, and it is not to be doubted but that under the influences of the spirited speeches of yester-day, especially the valedictory address, all present who have known the joys and sorrows of college Mie felt again the young blood in their veins. Held up before the eyes of the sollege student as THE ACME OF HIS EXISTENCE,

It is not wonderful that he regards Commencement Day as of equal importance in the family chromology with his marriage or his decease. The college student in general acquires the idea that on that day he is thrown out upon the world to take care or himself; that the parental purse tightens from that moment, and that it is like being born again to enter a business life after four or six years of a theoretical and dreaming existence. This is a grave mistake. If the student has been diligent and faithful he does not entirely abandon one part of his life's work for another. If he rushes madly into law, divinity, medicine or commerce he need not be any less the student. The mental struggles which he has had with the "integration of binomial fferentials" will enable him to more easily overcome the perplexities of trade. It is like laying down an interesting novel to take up a dry table of statistics. The dull routine of college life, which was scarcely appreciated under the ban of the curriculum, now seems like halcyon days, and out Greek or Latin roots is all well enough, but a flay over a ledger for a missing sixpence is another matter.

THE ENGROSSING DUTIES OF BUSINESS teem a drudgery past all endurance. The cashier or bookkeeper studies just as hard over his cash book or ledger as does the sophomore over his Plato or Horace, yet there does not seem to be any fascination in the former work. Digging out Greek or Latin roots is all well enough, but a day over a ledger for a missing sixpence is another matter.

A LACK OF CONTINUITY.

It is just in this feature that it is to be feared the chief objection to college life is raised. In the present arrangement which is made in nearly all the courses of study the student pursues from twelve to sixteen distinct branches of philology, science or philosophy during each year. In the first years the number is less; in the last two probably greater. The biennial examination does not suffice to keep bright in his mind all the chemical problems which he has struggled to master; and, as a consequence, while he strives to remember all the formule in calculus he forgets other more important matters. In many instances, therefore, the aumnus becomes thoroughly unfitted for the "hum drum" work of lite. He cannot endure the monotony of his father's counting room, and although he enters a profession with great promise at the start, his ardor soon cools, because he finds in it so little variety. In his address to the graduating class yesterday afternoon President Barnard indicated with great force and clearness the proper course for young men to pursue in beginning their struggle in the world of trade and commerce.

THE CHARM OF COLLEGE LIPE.

It needed nothing more than the bright faces of the young men themselves to tell how important the day was to them and how greatly its exercises were enjoyed. Even the grave body of trustees, with their white ties, and the complacent facuity, as they sat robed in their black gowns, seemed to remember the scenes of their college lite. To all the Alumni of Columbia College present it was a scene to awaken the memories of bygone days. The scenes of college balls will always find a place in all their hearts. Sorrow and prosperity are alike unable to efface them. The lingering recollections of those four years of joyous youthful existence awaken with the slightest prompting.

FROM YEAR TO YEAR

the time-hongred custom has prevailed of assembili

Columbia College as did the twenty young graduates who yesterday took their final leave of the mother who has led them up from boyhood to man's estate. The latter cast off the leading-strings of college, and the good-natured faculy ga'nered up the reins for the next class. In the twinking of an eye, as it were the Juniors became Seniors, and to the latter the fittle college world was shutout forever.

After the benediction had been said and the young alumni had gathered up their large bundles of bonquets the academy gradually emptied, and the one hundred and nineteenth commencement, with its list of alumni, became matters of record among the archives of Columbia College.

BORDENTOWN FEMALE SEMINARY.

Conferring the Degree of M. E. L .- Interesting Exercises-Essay on "Woman's Mission." The twenty-first annual Commencement of the Bordentown (N. J.) Female College came off yesterday in the presence of a large assemblage of the friends and patrons of the institution. This structure is located on a bluff which overlooks the Delaware River, at a height of about sixty feet above water level. It commands a most delightful view of the surrounding country, including the farm of the late Jerome Bonaparte, uncle to the late Emperor. The college was first established in April, 1851, and chartered by the Legislature in February, 1853. It is controlled by a board consisting of ten members, and the faculty, which com-prises four male professors and six fe-male teachers. The Rev. John H. Brakeley, A. M., is the president and also lecturer on natural science. To his indefatigable efforts the institution owes its success in an eminent degree. It contains, at present, about seventy students, some of whom are from distant parts of the country, two whom are from distant parts of the country, two being natives of Sait Lake City. The course of studies is divided into three classes—scientific, classical and optimal. Those who have completed the scientific course are entitled to the degree of M. E. L., which signifies Mistress of English Liter-the scientific course are entitled to the degree of M. E. L., which signifies Mistress of English Literature.

The exercises opened yesterday forenced at twenty minutes to eleven o'clock with Rossini's overture to "il Barbiere di Siviglia," which was rendered with good effect by the Misses Hinds, E. Finney, N. Williams, L. Hastings, B. Weatherby and K. Mott. Six young ladies presented themselves for graduating honors, each of whom read an essay of her own production. Miss Arrietta Hitchins, of Trenton, received great applause for her essay on "Woman's Mission." It is a most elaborate paper and reflects much credit on the author. It might be styled a declamation against the so-called woman's rights question. Woman, she said, had a great, glorious mission, and her special field of labor was at home, where, without a full, physical, mental and moral culture, she would not be able to successfully combat the growing evils of the age. The Misses Mount and Finney displayed great musical talent, and the duet rendered by Misses L. Hastings and F. Mount was faultless. Altogether the exercises were of a very interesting character, and will form a bright epoch in the mistory of the college.

The following are the names of the graduates or class of '73 who received the diplomas comerring on them the degree of M. E. L.:—

town, N. J.

The following former graduates received the same degree:—
Emily Dicks, class of 1862; Mary Hozz, 1863; Jennie Gillert, 1866; Carolina Howell, 1867; Netne W. Orivant, 1898; Mary A. Marshall, 1899; Louisa A. Sooy, 1870; Flora C. Hastings, 1871; Jennie N. Hastings, 1871; Lizzie B. Miss Lane Different Miss Lane Diff

Quimby, 1871.

Miss Jane Briscoe, Flint, Mich., received the honorary degree of M. E. L.

The valedictory was given by Miss Gordon in a truly eloquent and pathetic manner. The words of lareweil were very touching and the President, teachers and students seemed visibly affected. When the parting song and benediction were given the audience dispersed, well pleased with such a rich intellectual treat, which will not be soon forgotten.

Meeting of the Alumni-The Woolsey Fund-Evening Reception.

New HAVEN, June 25, 1873.

To-day the annual meeting of the alumni of Yale College took place at Alumni Hall. A large number of graduates assembled at nine o'clock, and were called to order by Professor George E. Dav, who invited the members of the class of 1823 present to take seats on the platform. About a dozen ent to take seats on the platform. About a dozen responded, Mr. S. C. Perkins, of the class of 1848, was elected assistant secretary and Dr. Blagden, of Boston, class of 1823, was chosen chairman. Speeches of a congratulatory and pleasing character, reviving old memories of Yale, were made by Messrs. C. Van Sanvoord, of New York, class of 1833; Rev. Dr. Alkman, of Delaware, class of 1843; Samuel C. Perkins and Hon. Wilham C. Evarts, of New York, class of 1837; Hon. Edwards Plerrepont, of New York, class of 1837; and samuel N. Duffield, class of 1863.

The executive committee of the Woolsey fund reported that they had paid over the first $100,000 of the half million proposed to be raised. The anreported that they had paid over the first $100,000 of the half million proposed to be raised. The anouncement occasioned much enthusiasm. The obituary list of the alumni was read showing that eighty members have died during the past year. After appointing an alumni committee the meeting adjourned.

After appointing an alumni committee the meeting adjourned.

In the afternoon the committee of the Woolsey fund held a meeting and discussed plans for future operations. From the report of last year's doings it appeared that $167,000 has been subscribed, including the amount paid in.

This evening President Porter held a reception at the Art Gallery, which was largely attended. Several classes have also held their reunions and partaken of a supper. To-morrow the exercises close with the delivery of Commencement day orations and the conferring of degrees.

The voting this alternoon by the alumni for two members of the corporation resulted as follows:—The vacancy caused by the expiration of the term of Hon. Whilliam M. Evarts was filled by his re-election, he receiving 792 votes; the vacancy caused tion, he receiving 792 votes; the vacancy caused by the resignation of Joseph E. Sheffleid was filled by the election of Mason Young, he receiving 328
